Becoming is

No moment can be called her own, and happily so.
Her time and life itself are consumed by the needs of others. For a little while, we have not been strangers here. Our joys and sorrows have become part of another. And we have grown in love.

For this we are grateful.

We, the Class of 1967, dedicate our yearbook to Sister Catherine Labouré.

*One by one, Lord,
I see and love all those* love . . .

*whom you have given me
to sustain and claim my life.*

Who am I? Why have we met? Where are we going?
But, if you have answered none of these, we honor your wisdom.
For your gift has led us to the threshold of our own minds.

In the end, it is not the large things, but the countless small moments which make us alive and happy to be so. We will never remember any one of them very clearly, but their passing has been fruitful, their mark indelible.

COLLEGE LIFE

*Suffer us
not to be separated
And let our cry
come unto Thee.*

T. S. Eliot

Rosemarie Melloni sees history come alive.

Far-away places with strange sounding names converge at the desk of Sister M. Fidelma.

Sisters M. Fortunata and Ricarda admire one of the library's recent acquisitions.

Sister M. Macrina, head librarian.

Miss Katherine McNally opens the door to learning.

Sister M. James Anna hears another tale of woe.

Another hard day's night for Student Council.

Foreign students: a warm wind from the south.

Hemetera staff: part of "our own."

What would we do without Ellen?

Herald hub-bub.

Lawrence M. Kearns and daughter Ellen: Mr. and Madame President.

Guild members, Mrs. Toomasian, Mrs. Donnelly, and Mrs. Heffernan: "Put them all together, they spell 'mother'."

Hands across the table at the Ethelon Food Sale.

Sister Louisella and Sheila pause at the threshold of creativity.

All right, Sister Jeannine Marie, just what did you feed that plant?

Hey, Sister Elizabeth Marguerite, put down that book—we need a fourth for bridge!

Really, Sister Gladys, how can studying be bad with a view like that?

Sister St. Hugh, come blow your horn!

A tense moment for Sister Paul William.

Eileen oversees amateur checkmates.

A welcome interruption for Linda.

A smear job for Alice Valerie.

Do you read me?

Nightcap.

Ellen directs elementary seminar.

The Faculty Lecture Series presents Gore Vidal speaking on the future of the novel in America.

Father Edward Flannery hypothesizes on the real cause of anti-Semitism.

Modern Japan's influence on the world's future discussed by Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer.

Campus Community Conference panel members question student responsibility.

A thoughtful student audience.

Ellen O'Connor makes her point.

Ginette Patch becomes one of Euripides' lovely Trojan women.

When, when, Peace, will you, Peace

G. M. Hopkins

Backstage Kathy Logan pensively prepares to adopt the character of Hecuba.

Sister Gretchen and Gretchen Hopkins share a moment of exuberant satisfaction with play director, Dr. Otto Asherman.

Joseph Lanza del Vasto dynamically conveys his inspiring message of peace to a captive audience.

Marge Doyle appraises the timely display of books and pamphlets on the war and peace issue.

Dr. Gordon Zahn stresses the personal concern necessary to the struggle for peace.

Floored by the news!

Dangling conversation.

Most popular man on campus.

Absent-minded scholars.

Ruth Nolan plans a busy weekend.

Alice Murray whips up a chocolate frappe.

Carolyn and Frannie reflect over the morning's classes.

The French seminar before seminar. Dotty, Peggy, Peggy, and Pat on a typical Tuesday morning.

In her gracious manner, Mrs. Hestnes warms a friendly caf conversation.

But, kids, I already lost five pounds!

"I'll raise you one," Alice answers.

Judy and Kathy take a study break to prepare flowers for the fair.

Mary McLaughlin takes time out for a midnight rally.

Sister Ellenice tricks and treats her way through the dorms.

Dorm life adds leisure to learning.

"I dweamed I taw a puddy-tat a-cweeping up on me."

Dresser-top fantasia.

MRS. JULIA JENNINGS
Maria Hall

"I shall define 'lady' to be the feminine person."

Look at the camera, Louise.

Are Mary Jane and Jane running away from home?

Three heads are better than one.

Mrs. Barry: Regis' link with the outside world.

Is this the girl you met at the mixer last week?

Winterscape.

A fresh start.

New day's dawning.

The casual scene.

Up for grabs.

Off for a set.

And what has made these things special—the deariness of the people? the elusiveness of the moment? Even now we can hardly say what has made us happy. We only know that there is a new fullness of heart in our song. For sometimes we come together to celebrate, and these are the times we remember.

SPECIAL ACTIVITIES

*It Was A Very Good
Year*

Caught in the act!

The Potato Men, our classical favorites

Joannie, Daddy's little girl

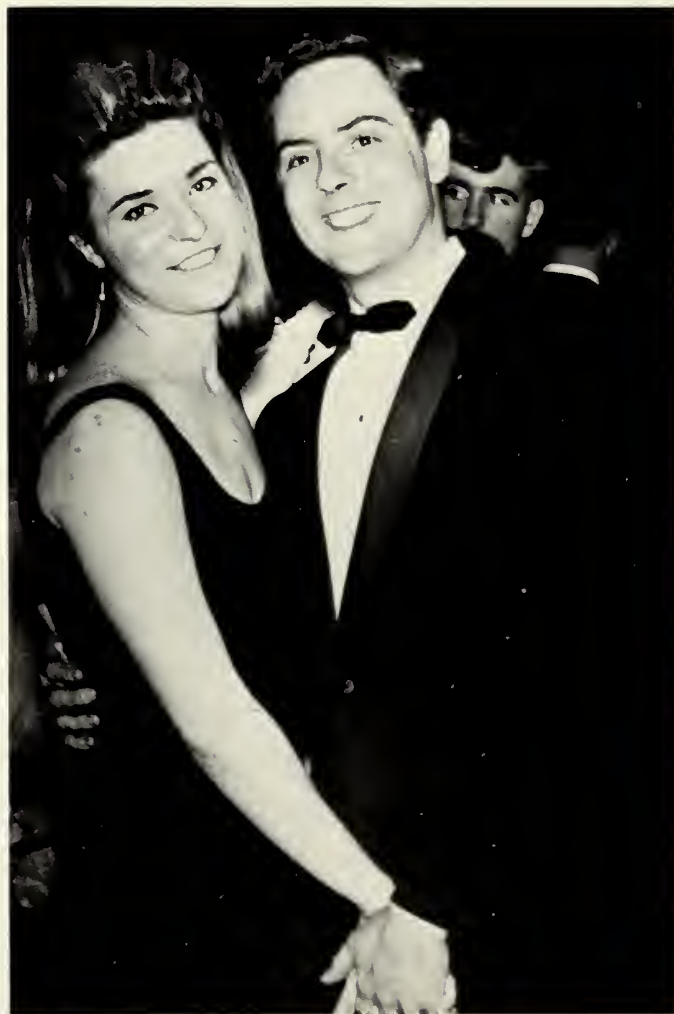

Maureen LaFountain, Class President, congratulates Peggy Lally for "it was a very good week."

Barbara Bowen displays her symbol of seniordom.

As Anne herself would say, "Ah, bliss!"

Carol Mullen, Chairman of Prom, enjoys a well-deserved dance.

Cinderella impromptu

THE QUEEN AND HER COURT: Peggy Geddes, Peggy Lally, Ellen O'Connor—Queen, Maureen LaFountain, Mary Holland, Carol Mullen

Publications booth offers the lure of curious paraphernalia.

Gay balloons add flair and bounce to an afternoon of fun.

*To celebrate the need of comrades
Every year shall you bloom again
Out from where you retired,
you shall emerge again.*

Sandburg

Barb, Margie, and Pam "take five."

"Good ol' Charlie Brown" steals the show again.

Don't laugh, Sisters, you may be auctioned off next!

Mary and Carol find a date for the day.

Dr. Hawley displays the unique items at the faculty booth.

"Du café, Monsieur?" offers French club member Jane Ryan.

Ellen White and friends pause to express the general gaiety of the afternoon.

Happiness is finding our Peanuts friends at the Regis Country Fair.

"Caught in the act!" jokes policeman McLaughlin, as she arrests Sister Catherine Labouré.

Sister Janet hurries to a more quiet spot for a moment of warmth and refreshment.

"Delicious to the very last hamburger!" exclaim chefs Arlene, Sandy, and Mary Jo.

Friends chat over steaming onion soup at the "Café Français."

Jan Solomon: "Garçon!"

Country Fair queen, Mary Holland, with her court of smiling harvest sweethearts.

Sopranos sing attentively.

Berj Zamkochian brings the true sensitivity of the artist to each moment of direction.

Sister Margaret William and Cheryl Martello set the mood for Benjamin Britten's "Missa Brevis."

. . . music heard so deeply

That it is not heard at all, but you are music

While the music lasts.

The Carondoliers make their gala debut. Left to right: Lois, Sheila, Jane, Rita, Bonnie, Carol and Sarah.

The Glee Club fills the air with music.

What a piece of work is man . . .

Shakespeare

With her usual eloquence, Mary Jane presents Sister Jeanne D'Arc with a Christmas token of student esteem.

Carolers descend from the foyer warming the night with music.

"... it is the Light, existing before all else was made which, patiently, surely, eliminates my darkness."

Teilhard de Chardin

Freshman girls dance a Christmas alleluia.

A pensive moment before the pageant.

We are not strangers in this darkness.

Young choirboys entertain at tree-lighting party.

My Chau Thi Doan, Vietnamese foreign student, adds the grace of the Orient to our celebration of Christmas.

A moment of mirth.

Mesdames Boulanger and Laus and students enjoy the homey touch of the French Club Christmas party in Regis Hall.

Seniors gather with mixed emotions in preparation for the ceremony.

Linda Forcier steps forward in gracious anticipation.

Father Burns officiates on Cap and Gown Day.

*I am not now
That which I have been.*

Byron

A moment of awareness and dignity for Pam Hattem.

Sister Flavia, Dr. Bryan, and Mary Jane Doherty reflect the pride of the administration, faculty, and student body in this moment of Regis tradition.

Gladly we have shared both tears and laughter. Through a myriad of memories, we have grown into a union that is forever. Yet a time comes for separation into individual perfections. We are not sad—just as this past lives in us, the future exists for us.

Special thanks must go to Sister Marie de Sales whose tireless patience and advice have been invaluable. We are also indebted to the counseling and encouragement of Dick Lowe of Taylor Publishing Company. Finally, the production of this book would have been impossible without the constant cooperation of Mr. Melvin Hookailo and Hookailo Studios.

Mount Regis

Regis College

Weston, Massachusetts

Four years at Regis have been for each of us a unique collage of academic, cultural, and social activity. The experience of the self, encountering a society, has resulted in the change and determination of both. We are now different and Regis is different because of us.

This period of change and growth has also been a time of paradox and opposing tensions. What has been seen as our withdrawal into the academic world of ivory-tower idealism has also been an affirmation of our realistic odyssey. These college years have been a time of looking for and looking at each other and ourselves - and they have been a time of concern and involvement. The painful recognition of our limitations, which may have resulted, has strangely enough been the basis of our advancement.

We are the individual and we are the community - the former defies classification and the latter scorns it. The integrity of our aloneness has been the source of our oneness. We have been the planners and the crammers, the carefree and the worriers, the theoreticians and the doers. The interrelationship of these tensions has helped us to maintain our balance as a class and as a community.

In the oscillating augmentation and diminishment of our activity is the unique explanation of our dynamism. For, if anything, our growth has not been the sheltered, glass-house variety. Our moments of achievement have been tempered by our glimpses of despair.

There has been the weariness and gloom of final exams and there has been the exciting glimmer of a communicated idea. There has been the smoker bull-session over either the implications of Nietzsche or a Saturday night date. There has been the 9:01 dash across the parking lot for that first class and there has been that long, quiet walk whose direction is less determined. In this polarity of our experience, we have shared a common ground.

By 1967 we have come to know each other's names and each other's faces and, if we are lucky, we have come to know each other. Yet we must separate and dissolve our bonds. We have been one for a short time and we have grown. More than the memory, we can retain the growth. For in this growth there is no retreat: we are a part of all we have met - and we have met each other.
